Plastic pollution poses a significant threat to the environment and human health. It is estimated that around 8 million metric tons of plastic enter our oceans every year, causing harm to marine life, ecosystems, and ultimately, our own well-being. The awareness drive was conducted with the students on reducing single-use plastic, recycling and disposing of plastic, and sustainable packaging. Students were motivated to participate in a cleanliness drive within the campus premises. The faculties also took part in the drive enthusiastically, hence making the event more impactful for the upcoming generation.

Conclusion: It is the need of the hour that we embrace various sustainable alternatives to plastic products in our daily lives. For example, use cloth shopping bags, stainless steel or glass containers for food storage, and natural fiber clothing.

By making conscious choices and adopting sustainable habits, we can contribute to a cleaner and healthier environment for ourselves and future generations.
